K - 3 concert rescheduled

Elk Point schools were closed Tuesday, joining Heinsburg, which had closed Monday when some thermometers in that district hit the minus 50 degree mark. The Elk Point Elementary Grades K to 3 Concert has been rescheduled to 10:00 a.m. Thursday, December 21, with the Grade 4 to 6 portion that afternoon as originally scheduled.

Seniors enjoy Christmas party

By Irene Magnusson

A goodly number of the members of the Pioneer Circle gathered, with their appetites, at the drop-in centre, December 9, to partake of their annual pre-Christmas get-together and supper.

The hall was gaily decorated, with a perky Christmas tree in full dress, the piano was tuned and mellow, and all the prettiest dresses were on show. Violet McFadyen, with Helga Vaughn and Anne Buck had prepared a short program of entertainment, which followed the as-always delicious and ample catering of the Empress Cafe.

Mrs. Vaughn read a commentary on the hassles of getting ready for the party, to much laughter. Mrs. Buck read a delightful Christmas piece, and the entertainment of Jim McFadyen of Vermilion, with stories, songs and dance, put everyone in good humor, ready to welcome a visit from Santa. An exchange of small gifts had been decided upon, this year, in place of the usual draws, and was well received.

That the Christmas party took place on the coldest night so far, of the season, didn't seem to slow up the seniors, although there were perhaps a few missing who should have been there. Having pianists in the membership certainly makes for a livelier evening, at the Christmas parties.

Holiday season traffic program

To ensure the safe movement of traffic throughout our area during the upcoming holiday season the Elk Point detachment, in conjunction with the St. Paul Subdivision Highway Patrol, will be conducting a major traffic program. This will include an increased number of Police Check Stop and a higher concentration of Traffic Law Enforcement. Motorists are asked to use caution when approaching Police Check Stops.

REMEMBER: Drive Defensively, Don't Drink and Drive. Buckle-up and have a safe and enjoyable holiday season.

Christmas Comes Early

Special story hour

Elk Point Public Library has a special treat for the preschoolers this Christmas. A guest storyteller and our old friend Santa Claus will be on hand this Friday morning for an exciting Christmas Storytime. Parents, bring along your cameras!

The Elk Point Light Horse Association

Wishes to apologize for not being able to attend the "EXTRAVAGANZA" with the horses. Work schedules and heavy snowfall made it impossible for members to get their horses and equipment to town. We are sorry for any disappointment we may have caused.

Power outage leaves Elk Point area cold, dark

By Irene Magnusson

Numerous residents of Elk Point and areas to the north and west of town woke to an exceptionally cold, dark dawn on Monday, December 18, with frigid temperatures outdoors compounded by a lack of electricity flowing to homes and farmsteads.

Clocks ground to a halt at 6:37 a.m., along with furnaces, automotive block heaters and early risers' coffee pots.

Cause of the outage was primarily a broken wire a short distance northwest of Elk Point, which cut service to parts of the town, mostly in the northwest area, including the hospital.

A customer calling in after noticing a broken wire gave the first clue the many servicemen out on the job had. There had been a lot of searching by the crews, including walking some lines through the Dog Rump valley, Alberta Power officials reported.

Power was restored in about two hours to some areas, but a secondary problem left customers 'powerless' for up to 5 and a half hours in other areas, while elsewhere it was 'on again, off again.'

A diesel powered emergency generator in Elk Point Hospital cut in, Administrator Clem Johnson said, allowing heat, light and all other life sustaining equipment to function without problems. Here the outage occurred in two time periods, with power on in between.

Supervisor Fred Kerschbaumer of Alberta Power gave the extreme temperatures of the coldest night of winter as the most probable cause of the line break, although all aspects will be checked out.

Temperatures in Elk Point during Monday's early hours hovered at minus 38 degrees Celcius.

No Sunday shopping

There will be no Sunday shopping in Elk Point this Christmas, after all.

Merchants hoping to open their doors on Sunday, December 24 to fill the needs of last minute shoppers were found to be very few in number, and those few decided that unless a large percentage of stores were to open that day, the effort would be futile.

Convenience stores, gas stations and video rental outlets will operate as usual on Sunday, with some also being open on Christmas and New Year's days.

Review holiday hours

Due to the Christmas and Boxing Day holidays, the Lakeland Review will not publish a December 27 issue. Our next issue will come out on January 3, 1990.

Deadline for classified advertising in the January 3 issue will be 5:00 p.m. on Thursday, December 28, while deadline for display advertising and news will be 5:00 p.m. Friday, December 29.

The Lakeland Review office will be closed on December 25, 26, and 27, and January 1, 1990, and will be open for business on December 28 and 29.

Have a happy holiday season.

Fire Destroys School Busses

On Dec. 17th, at 5:30 p.m., Elk Point Fire Department was called to put out a fire at Peder Pederson's place, approximately eight miles from Elk Point. The fire destroyed a garage, two school busses, and a car. Cause of the fire, according to Fire Chief Bill Marцениuk, is still undetermined, with approximately $60,000 damages. Marцениuk said that the St. Paul Fire Department was called out to help put out the fire, but the fire fighting was greatly hampered with the cold weather and short supply of water.

Snow and Cold Curb

Pre-Christmas activities

A heavy snowfall driven by strong winds plugged rural roads and sent school buses home early last Thursday, and set snow plows and tow trucks to working overtime as northeast Alberta coped with the first major onslaught of winter. Up to 25 centimetres of the frigid fluff fell in the Elk Point area, making travel difficult both in town and out.

Town crews had main arteries cleared by early afternoon on Friday, and barricaded Main Street on schedule for the Chamber of Commerce Christmas Extravaganza. However, little could be done for the rural area, where farmyards plugged with snow prevented members of the Elk Point Light Horse Club from extricating their horse trailers, wagons and sleighs so they could take part in the event. The entertainment schedule suffered severely from cancellations due to the inclement weather, with only the Elk Point Junior Drama Club showing up for their performance. Even this was cut short, when an elf took a tumble off the stage and had to be hurried to hospital with a nose injury.

However, the bonfire burned brightly and shoppers paused to visit near its glowing warmth before continuing their quest for pre-Christmas bargains. The Farmers Market's special Christmas Market had a variety of decorations and giftware to offer as well, as craftspeople cleared their 1989 inventory. Stores enjoyed a brisk business as those who could extricate their vehicles came downtown to finish up their holiday gift lists. Santa Claus paid a welcome visit, and took the opportunity to inquire into the Christmas wishes of a number of children.

Members of the Elks and Royal Purple Lodges hosted their annual Christmas Party Friday night, with a fair attendance, while the Elks Hockey Club had a reasonably good crowd out to see them defeat Kitscoty Monarchs 4 - 3. Elk Point Baptist Church reported sparse attendance at their Sunday School Christmas Concert, also held Friday evening.

As the evening drew to a close, and snow again fluttered down, the Chamber of Commerce turned their attention to the well-filled draw boxes to determine the winners of their three contests. Passers-by were recruited to help with the draws, and pulled forth the names of Karen Bjornstad, for $300 Elk Point Bucks, Kevin Bjornstad for $200 Elk Point Bucks, and JoAnne Boorse for $100 Elk Point Bucks. Deep digging into the Shopping Spree box yielded the name of Amelia Jasinsky, who took the entire $200 in prize money, having spent in excess of that amount while shopping at the Extravaganza. Little Michelle Friesen was the winner of an overflowing 4-foot stocking, stuffed with gifts from participating businesses. Presentations were made to the Bjornstads, Mrs. Boorse and Miss Friesen during the Elks and Lions Kids' Christmas Party Saturday afternoon.

Attendance at both the United Church Sunday School Christmas Concert Sunday morning and their Cantata Sunday evening was good despite the weather, but Monday saw the thermometer plummet to the minus forties, further curtailing activities.

In Our View

'Tis the season

Ready or not—here it comes!

In just four days, we'll be hanging up the stockings, wrapping the last of the gifts to tuck beneath the tinsel tree, calculating how many hours the big bird will take to roast to glorious perfection, wondering how long past 5:00 a.m. the children will sleep before they tear from their beds to see what Santa Claus has brought, and hoping that none of the details that make up a perfect Christmas has been somehow forgotten.

In five days, we'll be awash in discarded wrapping paper, munching our gift chocolates, sniffing the savory aromas coming from the kitchen, greeting those of our families who come to share the holiday with us, and enjoying every minute of the clamorous celebration.

It's a far cry from the way things were, almost 2000 years ago, on a cold night in a tiny middle eastern village.

A tired donkey, carrying an equally tired woman feeling uncomfortable twinges of pain in her distended belly, plodded after a tired man down the dirt street toward a small inn, seeking a place to rest. The innkeeper was sympathetic, but had no room left for these late-comers, unless they would settle for a stall in his stable. At least they were sheltered from the wind there, and the straw bedding was soft and clean. It would do.

During the long winter night, the first cries of a newborn baby emanated from the stable, and high above, a tiny star swelled to glowing glory. The shepherds on the hills around the village saw the star, and wondered what it meant. They were even further amazed when angels appeared before them, and told them that the star hovered over the place where a new king, who would reign over the whole world, had just been born. Far away, other men saw the star, and realized that this was the sign astrologers had predicted would come to tell them of an auspicious event which would change history. Both groups set off to see where the star led.

The joy resulting from that birth, in a humble stable, is celebrated yet today. It is the reason behind all our celebrations at Christmas, in Christian lands around the world. Somehow, we tend to forget that we illuminate our homes with lights in memory of that star, place angels on top of our trees to remind us of the angels who visited the shepherds, and give gifts to each other as the wise men brought gifts to the Christ Child. Only the old carols of joy, peace and love, and the wondrous message of hope expressed in the Biblical records of that most blessed of all events remind us of the true meaning of this most special day of the year.

Have a warm and wonderful Christmas, and let joy and peace fill every heart.

Ready for a White Christmas

Snow is piled deep in the Magnusson yard, as it is in most of the Lakeland. I measured 10" of snow on my sidewalk before starting to dig my way out on Friday morning.

Alberta trails

Like in the old days with a candle

By Irene Magnusson

Sitting here in the chilly pre-dawn, a couple of guttering candles scrounged up from half forgotten storage making a small pool of quivering luminescence around my writing pad, I'm reminded that Dickens as he penned "A Christmas Carol," and Shakespeare at his many wondrous plays, probably wrote their epics by candlelight, perhaps with a quill or dip-pen. At least I have a steady - ready ballpoint!

I get bored sitting around, in the dark, as the house gets colder and colder, and dawn comes very slowly. On this, the close-to-shortest day of the year, 37 degrees below zero is cold, be it Fahrenheit or Celcius. My sympathy is with those brave dependable souls who are out there right now, tracing the break in those long, long wires that thread their way from the far distant generators into our many homes, to bring the spark of light and heat and energy, over hill and dale, around corners, in storm or sun, cold or heat, to make our lives more worthwhile.

Those workmen out there - who may, indeed, be "used" to it, and have, I hope, clothing suitable to protect them in this bitter cold, still have to leave their warm beds in the dark of night to answer the emergency calls if that is when they come. I hope they do it willingly, and are well paid for their work, but I'd say it wouldn't hurt to offer a word of "Thanks" now and then. I'm sure I don't want the job!

It's funny how we've allowed ourselves to be so dependent on one source of energy!

Oh true, I found these faded old Christmas candles (after a bit of searching) and remembered I have this tiny radio which is, alternately, battery powered - and, miracle, the batteries not dead! But I have no source of heat, only the few quarts of water I can coax from the taps, until the pressure tank goes low. I cannot cook any food, and its surprising how we miss our early day coffee, and what hope of moving a vehicle in this cold without a decent interval of being "plugged in?"

So gutter, gutter, little candle, flutter flutter pale small light. I'm off to find another sweater, maybe a blanket for my shivering shanks, as I keep waiting for the sun, and the flicker of life in my light bulb which will launch a buzzing and humming, indicating my many motors, machines and gadgets will be alive and throbbing, ready to warm me and feed me and entertain or transport me - and you - according to the fashion to which we have become accustomed. I'm glad the telephone is independent of the powerline. It would be too intimidating to not even be able to complain to the neighbors.

However did we endure all those years of kerosene lamps and lanterns? Only an hour with a pair of candles has offended my olfactory nerves to the revulsion point, and I am happy to see the sun sending sparks over the horizon.

Now - if the furnace would just come on...

End of a decade

This is our last issue of the Lakeland Review for this decade.

The past ten years have seen unprecedented growth in Elk Point, and many events which have shaped our lives and determined the future of this community. In our January 3 issue, we will explore the past ten years, its highlights and momentous occasions.

As we set off on the uncharted course of the 1990s, our wishes go with you for a happy and healthy New Year.

Lioness trip of the week

Paper Recycling

The Lioness Club and the Scouting Assoc. are working together to make our community a part of the growing number of communities that have become more environmentally responsible. We have a paper box in place in front Scout Hall (the old courthouse), with pick up every two months or monthly if needed. So now we, the public need only put this box to use. How and what do we recycle? Here are a few examples!

What: newspapers, magazines, Christmas wrap, newsletters, fliers, milk cartons, envelopes, boxes.

How: newspapers and magazines can be bundled with string or twine, paper scraps, wrap, broken down cardboard boxes can be put in cardboard boxes and placed into paper box.

Watch this newspaper in the coming weeks for more tips on paper recycling.

On behalf of the Lioness Club, Merry Christmas.

Letter to the Editor

Impaired driving awareness

Dear Editor:

The Metis Association of Alberta's Impaired Driving Awareness Program would like to take this opportunity to wish everyone a Merry Christmas and a Happy and safe New Year.

This letter is a plea to all Albertans to STAY DRY - DON'T DIE this festive season. Too many times we say it won't happen to us, but here are the facts as specified in the pamphlet "TAGGED FOR LIFE".

* 2,464 individuals were killed in Alberta traffic collisions from 1983 - 1987.

* Over 100,000 were injured during that same period.

* 26% of all drivers involved in fatal collisions had consumed alcohol prior to the crash.

An impaired driver can become a killer, don't wait for a crisis to realize this. Take a few minutes to think if you want to be one of those killers on our hi-ways this festive season, you can very well be if you drink and drive.

My program would like to see you spend this joyous time of year with your family, not in jail, hospital bed or even with a tag on your toe, but with the people who love you.

SO PLEASE,
IF YOU DRINK —
DON'T DRIVE!

Lloyd Gladue
Director

Impaired Driving Awareness Program

Elks show competitive spirit

A win and a loss this weekend, both by a single point, showed that Elk Point Elks are making a very competitive stand for their first year in the Sask-Alta Hockey League.

Elks 4, Monarchs 3

The Elks played host to Kitscoty Monarchs on Friday night at A. G. Ross Arena, with a good crowd taking in the game. The Elks led off the scoring with the lone goal in the first period sent to its mark by Willie Lesyk, off assists by Jim Vinge and Murray Cochrane. Cochrane scored the first of two second period goals, assisted by Eugene Zarowny and Terry Wozniak, while Vinge slammed the Elks' third goal home off an assist by Wozniak, to make it 3-0 for the home team.

Kitscoty's first goal came just after the midpoint of the game, scored by Phil Bexson and assisted by Vern Bexson. The visitors lowered the margin with a second goal in the final minute of the second period, scored by Marc Bexson, assisted by Dean Rhinehart and Vern Bexson. Kitscoty tied the game 29 seconds into the final period, with a goal by Dean Moan, assisted by Vern Bexson and Dean Rhinehart.

Most valuable players were the two teams' goaltenders, Lennis Jack and Dwayne Wolanuk, Vern Bexson of Kitscoty, and Terry Wozniak of the Elks, who each received an Alberta Legislature pin donated by MLA John Drobot. Bill Jennissen was the 50-50 Draw winner, while Ed Buck won the Dave's Pizza gift certificate, Bill Pacholek the video certificate, Mervin Myhr the Co-op gift certificate and Dave Hutchison the Country Bulk gift certificate.

Paradise Valley 5, Elks 4

Sunday saw the Elks on the road to Paradise Valley for an afternoon game, which proved to be considerably tamer than Friday's penalty-filled contest, with only 3 minor penalties per team in the entire game.

The Elks again opened the scoring, with one goal by Terry Wozniak, assisted by Alain Leclerc and Murray

Cochrane, and a second by Jim Vinge, assisted by Richard Marcoux and Mike Boratynec, on the board before the host team found their way into the Elks' net. Paradise Valley tied the score before the first period ended, with Glen Sunderland making a pair of goals off assists by Dean Davidson (2) and Dale Sunderland.

The Sunderland-Davidson trio contributed two more goals in the second period, punctuated by an Elks goal by Alain Leclerc, assisted by Willie Lesyk and Chester Richard.

The Elks scored early in the third period to tie the score, with Murray Cochrane making the goal off an assist by Mike Boratynec, but the host team had the final word, with a goal by Grant Collins, assisted by Terry Reid.

The Elks' next home game is scheduled for Friday, December 22 at 8:30 p.m. against Edgerton, while on Thursday, December 28, the Elks will host Dewberry at 8:30 p.m.. Make sure to take these games in for some excellent senior hockey action.

What's news at the library?

Don't miss the Friday, December 22 storytime Christmas party. We will have a guest storyteller and a visit from Santa. Bring your preschoolers and your camera. Hey Kids! Come and enjoy our children's matinee at 2 p.m. on Thursday, December 28. We would like to thank the public for the many donations of used books we have recently received. Some of them have been added to our collection while others are for sale in the library. Come and see if there are some old favorites that you would like to purchase for a nominal amount.

Elk Point Public Library fees for 1990 are due on January 2. What a wonderful value! A whole year of reading, as well as music and video cassette use, for only $12.00 families, $6.00 adults and $3.00 children.

On December 7, the library staff went to the Elementary School to listen to the author, Martyn Godfrey. He was enjoyed by students, teachers, guests and library staff. He was found to be very humorous and entertaining as he related the many stories about how he got started in writing children's books. The Elk Point Library has fourteen books by Martyn Godfrey.

NEW BOOKS:

A new book just in at the library is "Empire of the Bay" by Peter C. Newman. This is a vividly illustrated history of the Hudson's Bay Company.

Also "Curling to Win" by Ed Lukowich. A welcomed guide to the exciting sport of Curling. Written by World and Canadian Champion curlers, it offers conditioning programs, practice methods and strategies to improve one's game.

There are two beautiful children's Christmas books just in as well. "The Mole Family's Christmas" by Russell Hoban which is about an endearing family of moles who discover that Christmas isn't just for people. "The Birds of Christmas" by Michael Pacy. This book will introduce children to all kinds of wonderful winter birds.

"Beyond Jennifer and Jason" by Linda Rosenkrantz — the baby-naming book expectant parents have always wanted: the first one to offer real help in finding the perfect name for their child.

Enjoying the extravaganza

Help From A Chris-moose

Mrs. Santa asks her trusty moose for help to deliver a forgotten present when the reindeers and Santa returned tired out from their long journey, in the Elk Point Junior Drama Club presentation at the Extravaganza.

Three Tiny Reindeer

Wooden spoon reindeer were among the countless items on offer at the Christmas Farmers Market held during the Extravaganza.

Fireside Visiting

There's nothing like a roaring fire on a chilly winter evening, especially when friends gather to exchange Christmas greetings in the midst of a stint of shopping. Thanks to Town crews, the annual bonfire warmed the hearts and hands of Extravaganza goers.

Blues host novice tourney

Elk Point Byers Blues hosted a four team novice hockey tournament on Saturday, with the host team named the winners of the 'A' side and St. Paul CTD Oilfield Service winning the 'B' side. Myrnam novices were the 'A' runners up, while Two Hills Eagles were the 'B' runners up.

The Blues expressed sincere thanks to Allan Piesinger of Byers Transport for his donation of trophies, to E-Can Oilfield Services and B & R Transport for the donation of food hampers for door prizes, to Dave's Pizza for the donation of pizzas for door prizes, and to Woody's Trophy and Gift, suppliers of the trophies.

'B' Winners

St. Paul CTD Oilfield Service sponsored the 'B' side winners in the Byers Blues tournament.

'A' Runners-up

Myrnam Novices were 'A' Side runners-up in the Byers Blues tournament.

'B' Runners-up

Two Hills Eagles were the 'B' Side runners-up in the Byers Blues tournament.

Elk Point Byers Blues

Elk Point Byers Blues won the 'A' side of their Novice tournament this past weekend. With the Blues and their coaching staff is Allan Piesinger of Byers Transport, sponsor of the winners' trophies.

Blessings

May His word inspire you at Christmas and in the days that come. Joy to all!

Minor hockey shows appreciation

Elk Point Minor Hockey Association has recently shown their appreciation to a number of the groups and businesses whose contributions toward the hosting of last spring's Provincial Pee Wee 'C' Tournament helped to make that event a memorable and exciting weekend for all concerned. Minor Hockey President Dave Kenyon praised the community for their generosity and heartwarming support of the tournament, and noted that staging an event of this caliber would not have been possible without the cooperation and input of the many individuals, groups and corporate sponsors who gave their time and funding to assist the Ag Society and Minor Hockey with hosting the tournament.

Corporate Sponsor

Gordon McCuaig is presented with a plaque honoring the contributions made by Westmin Resources to the Provincial Pee Wee 'C' Championship Tournament, by Dave Kenyon of the Elk Point Minor Hockey Association.

OORP

Honored Royal Lady Lois Sharek accepts a plaque and floral bouquet from Dave Kenyon, in thanks for the OORP's assistance with the Provincial tournament.

BPO Elks

Dave Kenyon presents Exalted Ruler Lawrence Pidluzny of the BPOE with a plaque honoring the Lodge for their help in putting on the Provincial tournament.

Energy wish list for Christmas

Let your Christmas be Merry ... and Energy Wise ... and "Green".

The Alberta Energy Conservation Branch has some suggestions for an energy wise and environmentally sensible Christmas list.

This version of the twelve days of Christmas is our gift to you:

"On the first day of Christmas my true love gave to me, a car that gets 45 miles per gallon..." There are at least 20 car models that will fill this bill.

* Cuddle up like 2 turtle doves under a new electric blanket. Some monitor body temperature to ensure a cozy sleep ... even after setting back the house temperature for the night.

* The three french hens you plan to serve over the holidays will cook more efficiently in a microwave.

* The four calling birds always seem to need new batteries. Rechargeable batteries may cost more initially but pay back over the long run.

* Five golden rings can really annoy you at 2 a.m. But you can get to the phone with a minimum of toe damage if you have an automatic night light with a daylight sensor.

* Six geese-a-laying will be happy to contribute some down toward filling a good quilt. Perfect for snuggling after you've turned down the thermostat.

* Seven swans-a-swimming in the shower are a sure sign that you need a water conserving showerhead.

* Eight maids-a-milking always compare Energuide labels when buying a new fridge to store their milk. The refrigerator is one of the largest users of electricity in your home.

* Nine ladies dancing through the local megastore, always stop for five litres of recycled motor oil to keep their fuel-efficient cars in top shape.

* Ten lords-a-leaping in your home are a definite sign of cold floors. Slippers are a great cure for cold feet and less expensive than turning up the thermostat.

* Eleven pipers are piping enormous amounts of water to your toilets. Outfitting toilet tanks with inexpensive 'toilet dams' can change the flush from a wasteful 20-litre tune to a svelte 12-litre melody!

* Sounds like 12 tiny drummers drumming in your sink? Your tap washers need to be replaced. A faucet that drips once every second can waste 1200 gallons of treated drinking water every year. Maybe it's time for the jazzy new set of taps...

Call Energy Matters at Zenith 22339 (427-5300 in Edmonton) for more gift ideas.

Far north Christmas

By Billie Milholland

Max Ward, the mailman, flew the mail in to McConnell Island, N.W.T. in the early '40's, to the two families living there. One Christmas Eve day back then, a little blond-haired girl waited, her nose pressed to the window, her brown eyes lifted skyward. She heard the motor of his plane approaching and she held her breath as she always did. She never tired of waiting, then watching the small, dark speck grow and grow until it was over her ... and then, gone, leaving a brown, wrapped parcel in its wake, hurtling towards earth for her to retrieve. This particular Christmas Eve day her eyes widened as the parcel fell and her fingers crept into her mouth. There was a splash of red on the parcel. She ran out of the house and over the snow as fast as her little legs would carry her. She pounced on the mail package which was tied up with red hair ribbons instead of string. Beautiful red ribbons, one for her and one for her little sister. She held the parcel to her heart and felt the magic of that wonderful Christmas begin.

Later that night, when everyone was in bed, the little girl could not sleep. She thought about Santa Claus, a grandfather person whom she had never seen, a kind and generous person who was coming to her house tonight to bring her a gift. She puzzled over this information. Why would a person no one had ever met, bring presents to strangers? Yet her parents insisted that he would. She wouldn't have been able to believe such a thing except that Max Ward, whom she had never met, had somehow known that she would love red hair ribbons and has taken the time to wrap them around the mail package. The night was still as her family slept and after awhile the little girl compelled to creep into the living room. She was not supposed to go there. The Santa Claus grandpa was very shy, and if anyone tried to peek at him, he would disappear in a flash and maybe forget to leave the gifts behind. But she couldn't help herself. With her eyes straining through the darkness and her heart beating loudly, her bare feet led her down the cold hallway into the living room. She stopped abruptly. Something rustled by the Christmas tree. Then she smiled. It was only one of the kittens playing with the tinsel. The tinsel! The whole universe paused in that moment as she stared at the shiny lead tinsel glinting and glittering in the moonlight. Moonlight that poured through the windows, making the tree alive with silver lights that moved and twinkled like stars. The little girl had never seen anything so beautiful. She crept back to her room for her quilt, which she wrapped around herself and cuddled into a corner to watch the wonderful tree. Then, she saw them. Out of nowhere they appeared, she was sure. The moonlight shone off the chrome handles of two doll carriages, sitting magnificently under the scintillating tree. The Santa Claus had come, magically, quietly, while she was watching.

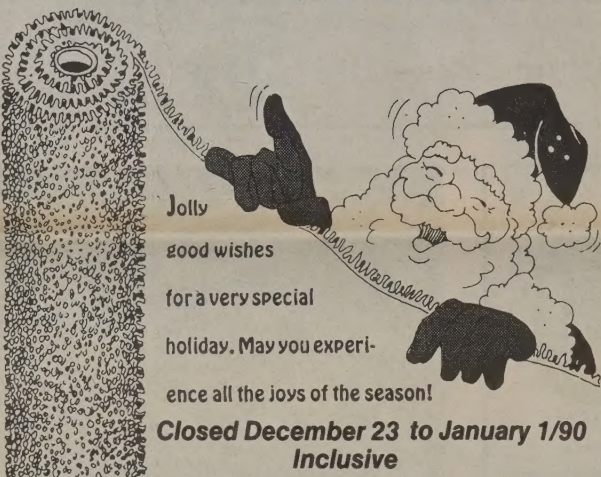

The Santa Claus had whispered through her house like everyone said he would and like Max Ward, the mailman, he had left something that he knew would make her happy. The little girl sighed and drifted to sleep.

Songs of Joy

Melodious voices were lifted in song as Elk Point United Church presented their annual Christmas Cantata on Sunday evening.

The United Church Cantata

The spirit of Christmas

Sunday, Dec. 17, saw the United Church in Elk Point full almost to capacity, as music lovers poured in to be thrilled anew with the beautiful songs of Christmas, offered in full-voiced joy by the purple-with-white gowned choir.

Lead through the five steps of Joy, Love, Worship, Peace and Hope by the calm clear narration of Joe Brunner, the 20-voice choir, accompanied beautifully by the piano under Debbie Lou Huskins' talented hands, soared.

Mingling the voices of five men and fifteen women, the offerings were varied, sometimes all voices, or the parts of male and female.

A duet of male voices, was varied a few minutes later by all five men in their various parts performing "We Three Kings". Later a group of seven children, with the gentle accompaniment of a guitar in the multi-talented hands of Mrs. Huskins, offered "I, said the Donkey," sweetly and beautifully. This was followed by the beautiful soprano of Diane Frankiw, rising compellingly in the wonderful flights of "O Holy Night."

A quartet of two male, two female voices, intertwined in intricate harmony of "The Peace Carol," and the sole parts by Don Conrad with background of the choir in "When a Child is Born" interspersed the numbers rendered by the entire company.

The "Silent Night" recessional came all too soon, ending an evening of uplifting music, enjoyed by all.

Nor was the evening yet at an end, for all were invited to enjoy a delicious lunch and visiting time together in the hall adjacent to the church. The sparkling cold outside seemed less unfriendly, after the joyful hours with Christmas music and smiling friends.

An assembly of parents

By S.D. Milholland

'Twas the night before Christmas
And under the tree
Not a creature was stirring
But my husband and me.

The children were nestled,
Each snug in her bed,
With plans of arising
At five. (So they said.)

And I, with my ratchet,
My spouse, with his pliers,
Were assembling two wagons,
(Bright red, shiny Flyers).

Plus a train for the one
And a bike for the other — (Merry Christmas, you girls,
From your Dad and your Mother.)

And in the next room
Stood a very large box
That was shipped to our home
From some Japanese docks.

In the crate, a farm—
With buildings and trees,
Horses, fences and cattle.
(Some assembling, please.)

The clock had struck two,
Before the wagons were done,
And the train and the bike
Would give hours of fun.

IF we could manage to Fit "C" nut to "A" arm,
And finish, with time left
To assemble the farm.

So we bent to our work
And we sweated some more
While the clock on the wall
Struck off two, three and four.

Then we found to our horror,
While on bended knees,
Instructions for the farm
Were in Japanese.

As promised, at five
The children awoke,
And admired their gifts.
But then they both spoke.

"Something is missing!" they said.
Well, I very much fear,

That as for the farm,
They'll get it next year.

The P.T.A. and I
Will never, never, agree—
An assembly of parents
Means something different to me.

Sing Along Time ...

Children attending the Elks and Lions Kids' Christmas Party enjoyed singing along with green-clad elf Clarence Smith, who also entertained at the Elks and OORP Christmas Party Friday evening.

Pioneer Circle

Last of 1989

By Irene Magnusson

The general membership meeting of the Pioneer Circle seniors' group was well attended, Vice-Pres. Morris Cooper in the chair, in Mike Palinka's absence. Secretary Grace Barwick read the minutes.

Following the Treasurer's report and business arising, correspondence was dealt with. A request to "Adopt a Hydrant" for town promotional purposes, with an invitation to paint the groups logo or some other chosen insignia on it, was discussed, and a motion to go ahead with this was carried.

An invitation from the County FCSS director to discuss mutual matters with her was read, but no action taken. A Telerama request for funds was put aside to be dealt with in the new year.

A dampening report by Cooper, of a near-injury to Empress Cafe staff, following the Christmas party, when the back step of the hall gave way causing a fall, was heard. A motion was carried to have the back steps repaired or replaced at once.

The Monday night Bingos were reported on by Phyllis Zarowny, showing they are well attended and good returns realized. It was agreed to continue to offer coffee and/or refreshments to customers at these gatherings.

On the costing of the hoped-for new building, Morris Cooper for the Building Comm. reported the amount estimated as $1.09 Million, with annual upkeep costs around 10% of that.

Irene Magnusson spoke briefly on the Alberta Council on Aging (ACA), and some of the benefits it could offer to the seniors.

Sid Holthe, who has been working on revision of the By-Laws and Constitution of the group, which seems to have been incorporated in 1974, read some of the original rules. These seemed a bit out-of-date for the direction the Pioneer Circle has taken over the years, still - a good basis for continuing. This was agreed on.

Continuing, Holthe suggested that seniors form a possible 20% of the population, so should have access to a corresponding amount of the grants available, as for instance, transportation grants. He urges a continuation of the Seniors' Week, in June, and suggests there should be at least one event scheduled per day for the five days of this. He regretted he would not be heading up this program, as last year, and suggested a committee be sought who will carry on. He touched on the so-called "Medic Alert" possibilities, Seniors' Home Owners Grants, and, very briefly, the Resolution drawn up recently and sent to ACA in Edmonton, on seniors' transportation.

Lena Kuziw questioned why the microphone (which the group has available) was not used by the speakers, as it was difficult to hear them. This was demonstrated, and agreed it would certainly help in future meetings.

The meeting was adjourned for another year, with those present enjoying refreshments and a few minutes visiting before departing, while wishes for a Merry Christmas were heard exchanged by many.

The gift

By Sheila Thompson

Kathleen and Mary were stretched out on the carpet for an afternoon of checkers. Kath resigned herself to taking every game from her little sister. "You know, I could beat you with one hand tied behind my back." She chuckled at her little joke. The clock ticked steadily. Aunt Ethel's knitting needles kept double time. Kitty dozed under the Christmas tree like a porcelain figurine.

A stomping at the door broke the drowsy calm. Papa was shaking the snow from his boots. "I have a job for you two," he said. "I need you to take some Christmas gifts to the Conways on the other side of the valley."

"We're pretty busy, Papa. Couldn't you go yourself?" Kath smiled sweetly at her father.

"I'm afraid not this time. You go on and hitch up the cutter. It won't take you long."

"Okay, Papa." Mary jumped up from the game. Kath stopped her with a look.

"I don't want to go. I don't even know those people and I've never been to their place."

Aunt Ethel kept knitting. Mama came in from the kitchen. "Go ahead, Kath. The fresh air will do you good."

Seeing she wasn't going to win this one, Kath punctuated her exit with a slammed door.

In the barn she set to her task with grim efficiency. Line snapped to bridle and Daisy followed her out of the stall. Papa had made their cutter himself. Kath was usually proud of his handiwork but today she didn't notice the cheerful red paint, the crisp green trimmings.

"First day of holidays and I'm treated like the hired hand," she muttered, backing Daily into the traces and fastening them with expert hands. Papa walked Mary to the cutter. Each carried a large cardboard box. "You girls have lots of time to get back before dark. Be cheerful now and be sure to wish the Conways a hearty good Christmas."

Once the wind was in their faces it seemed to blow the grumpiness away from the older sister. The high snowbanks on either side had them travelling through a maze and the bells on Daisy's harness set them to singing.

"I guess this is it," Kath decided as they approached a small greying house.

"Papa said they have seven children. Where do you think they put them all?" Mary asked softly.

The sleighbells announced their arrival and small faces popped up in the frosty windows. Small fists rubbed against the glass to clear spy holes. Mrs. Conway welcomed the girls in. It was indeed a small house, table and cook stove to one side, beds to the other. The children were delighted to have guests and set up a noisy clamber.

"Quit showing off. And quit jumping on the bed," she scolded. "Will you girls have some tea and milk?"

As they visited Mrs. Conway opened the boxes. The girls recognized Aunt Ethel's mittens and scarves, Mother's Christmas cookies. And there were little wrapped presents for everyone.

"Can we open them?" the children demanded eagerly.

"You must wait for Christmas. It's only two days away. Now put them under the tree." For once the children listened and set the gifts under an otherwise empty tree, decorated with bits of string and colored paper.

As the girls prepared to leave, Mrs. Conway pressed something into Kath's hand.

"Thank you for coming to see us. And Merry Christmas to you and your family."

In the cutter Kath opened her hand. There was a fine chain necklace with a tiny star hanging from it. The sun was going down as they travelled back. Hoar frost lent a heavy white outline to trees and fenceposts and wires. The world had become a pastel wonderland. Kath secretly thanked her father for the gift he had given her.

It's cross country time!

"If it's got to be cold, might as well have snow" is the philosophy of more and more people who are discovering the sport of cross-country skiing. X-C skiing provides an entirely fresh perspective. Animals that remain hidden in other seasons tell many stories by the trails they leave in the snow. Skiing compares favorably to hiking because the trails are travelled swiftly and smoothly. An informal club has been formed and everyone is invited to join. All ages and ability levels are welcome. For more information call Stephen (724-4409), Sheila (724-2007) or Marvin (724-2061).

A schedule of skiing events has been drawn up:

Sun. Jan. 14 - Afternoon skiing at the Bjornstads' (724-2061).

Sun. Jan 21 - Afternoon skiing at the Hawkins' (724-2007).

Fri. Jan. 26 - Skicade Clinic, Elk Point Elementary; Racing Clinic, 4:00 - 6:00, E.P.E.; Social Evening, 7:30 - 10:00, E.P. Library.

Sat. Jan. 27 - Skicade Community Clinic, location to be decided.

Sun. Jan. 28 - Freddy the Fox Loppet, Vermilion.

Sat. Feb. 3 - Full Moon Ski Tour.

Sun. Feb. 11 - Ski Tour, Bonnyville M.D. Trails.

Sat. Mar. 3 - La La Loppet, Lac La Biche.

Mar. 10-11 - Dolomite Peak Circuit Weekend Mountain Ski Trip.

All events are subject to weather conditions.

On Saturday, December 2nd, the Interim Board for the Northern Lights Library System decided to invite all ten communities which responded to the September request for proposals to up-date their submissions. Revised bids will be considered in written form up to January 8th, and heard by the Board on January 20th.

The ten communities originally submitting bids include Bonnyville, Cold Lake, Elk Point, Grand Centre, Lloydminster, St. Paul, Smoky Lake, Two Hills, Vegreville, Wainwright. Other members of the new library system include the Municipal District of Bonnyville, the County of Two Hills and the villages of Kitscoty and Myrnam.

For further information contact Interim Board Chairman, Dave Mc-

Lac Bellevue Christmas

By Billie Milholland

Near Lac Bellevue, just after the first Great War, Marie La Flamme remembers a Christmas so warm and wonderful that it has no equal.

In those days, in her community, no one had a Christmas tree, hung up stockings or expected Santa Claus to come with special presents. But Marie did wait for something special. She waited for the new dress. She knew what it would be like because she saw the material that her mama worked over every evening. If she shut her eyes she could picture it, a new serge dress with navy blue pleats and a rich, red top. Maybe there would be new shoes, too; shiny black ones that squeaked. There wouldn't be a new coat because she was not the biggest girl, but the coat that would come down to her from her older sister was very nice and different from the one that she would pass down to the sister below her.

When Christmas Eve day arrived, Marie could not stand still for excitement. There was no supper that evening. There would be no eating until many hours later at Grandpere's where even at that moment the cipate simmered in Grandmere's oven. Her papa drove the hay-filled sleigh up to the house where they loaded it with quilts, blankets and oven-heated rocks to keep everyone warm for the eleven mile ride to church for Midnight Mass. Then, the whole family climbed in and burrowed deeply into the cozy, sweet-smelling nest. The snow fell softly at first and Marie and her sisters poked their heads out of the blankets and lay back to let big, round snowflakes melt on their tongues. The weather grew colder and they rode on. Then suddenly, into the warm, dark place where they sat, Marie's papa burst under the blankets. Long icicles grew from his eyebrows and his mustache and each child squealed with delight as he rubbed that ice against their warm cheeks.

After a time the sleigh slowed and Marie knew that the church was near. She peeped out from under the blankets to see the soft yellow light from dozens of kerosene lamps and candles, pour out of the church windows into the cold night, to turn the snowdrifts the color of the new butter.

Men, women, children, and sleeping babies crowded into the little church. Then, when they had all settled in, a hush fell over the rustling congregation. Slow, sweet music from Uncle John's violin floated through the room and clear children's voices started the shepherd's song ...
Ça bergère assemble nous,
Allons voir le messie ...

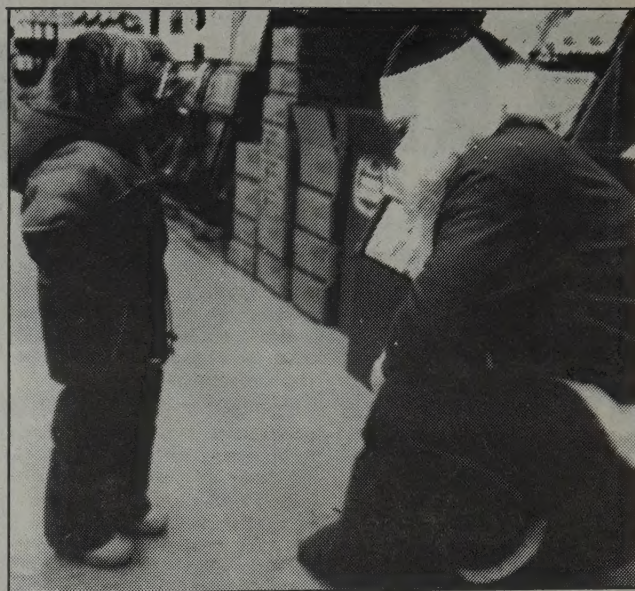

They sang and across the front of the church they came, slowly, grandly. A small Mary, proudly carrying an infant Jesus doll, a little Joseph following protectively. Three boys came next, each wearing a sheepskin over one shoulder and carrying a shepherd's crook. They sat on boxes behind the holy couple. And finally, as the song descended to its wonderful ending, two small angels climbed daintily to sit on tall boxes above them all. Admiring the living creche scene occupied Marie throughout the long, rhythmic Midnight Mass. Then, just as the warm smell of damp wool and the comfortable crush of familiar bodies lulled her towards sleep — it was over, and the people spilled out into the cold night. The sharp air, jingling harnesses and keen anticipation of the savory stew in Grandmere's oven woke Marie completely.

Aunts, uncles, cousins and guests-from-away, pressed into the grandparent's house. Quilts and blankets from the sleigh filled every corner, for children to sit on. They sang and looked after the babies while the grown-ups filled the table with the Reveillon feast. The table was always too small for the gathering, so Grandpere, the oldest men and guests-from-away ate first, then retired to the corners to smoke their pipes and overdo each other with stories of bigger fish, snorting moose and abundant crops. The women and the children ate last, some of them barely awake over their plates. Marie was awake. She breathed deeply, letting the rich smells of the stew, tourtiere and raisin pie seep deep within her before she allowed herself to have the first heavenly bite. Reveillon came only at Christmas and she did not want it to end too soon.

But, too soon, it did. Tables and chairs were pushed aside and each family spread out their quilts and blankets on the floor. Everyone knelt on their bedding and Grandpere's deep rich voice began the rosary.
Je vous salue Marie pleine de grâce
Le Seigneur est avec vous
Vous êtes bénie entre toutes les femmes ...

Somewhere about there, the darkness behind Marie's closed eyes and the utter contentment of a wonderful Christmas, pulled her into a deep, dreamless sleep where the texture of that day was permanently engraved in her mind for years to come.

Hi There, Santa ...

Tiny tots were eager to visit with Santa as he toured Elk Point stores during the Christmas Extravaganza.
